

For the second consecutive year:

Dow Jones highlights S.A.C.I. Falabella among retailers that lead global sustainability efforts.

- The company is the only Latin American Retail company that integrates the Dow Jones Sustainability Index, which measures economic, social and environmental performance. This year, 2,086 companies from 47 countries were evaluated, and selects the leaders of each industry, who are in the top 10% of sustainable management.

Santiago, September 13th, 2017.- For the second consecutive year, S.A.C.I. Falabella was selected to join the Dow Jones Sustainability World Index (DJSI), which groups the leading companies committed to sustainable development. The company is the only Latin American retailer included in this list and selected for the third consecutive year as a member of the Emerging Market Index and Chilean Index.

The Dow Jones Sustainability Index, jointly developed by S&P Dow Jones Index and the Swiss firm RobecoSam, monitors the progress of organizations in economic, social and environmental matters. To do so, they elaborate an exhaustive review and study that considers 2,086 companies from 47 countries, and selects the leaders who are in the top 10% of sustainable management in their respective industries. This year, S.A.C.I. Falabella obtained results well above the industry average in these three dimensions, especially in the social one. The index considers topics such as corporate governance, Codes of conduct, anti-corruption practices, supply chain management, customer management, environmental management, labor practices and human rights, among many others. In addition to S.A.C.I. Falabella, the World Index highlights nine other retailers: Inditex (Spain), GAP (USA), H&M (Sweden), Best Buy USA, Canadian Tire (Canada), Kingfisher (UK), Staples (USA), CECONOMY (Germany) and Woolworths (South Africa).

S.A.C.I. Falabella corporate CEO Sandro Solari underlines that "sustainability is an integral part of S.A.C.I. Falabella's growth and development strategy and of each of its business units. We will continue to extend our efforts to generate positive impacts that benefit our customers, workers, suppliers and the communities of each country where we operate."

In addition, S.A.C.I. Falabella is part of the socially responsible investment index FTSE4 Good, developed by FTSE Russell, an independent company that belongs to the London Stock Exchange Group. Like the DJSI, this tool is also used by international investors to identify companies that incorporate global sustainability standards into their management.

Founded in Chile in 1889, S.A.C.I. Falabella has become one of the major retailers in Latin America. With presence in six countries (Chile, Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Peru, Uruguay and Mexico), the company has five business units: department stores, home improvement, supermarkets, real estate and financial services. The company, which is listed on the Santiago Stock Exchange as Falabella, reported US$13 billion in sales in 2016 and has some 100,000 employees. Visit www.falabella.com for more information on S.A.C.I. Falabella.